Evaluation and recommendation

Before we started with the KIOSK, everything concerning the stands of the study associations was already arranged. This means there is no way we can evaluate this part of the KIOSK, so we are only able to talk about the food and drinks and our own stand.

This year, there was an OS stand where people could get lemonade and fresh popcorn. While those that used these services enjoyed them, most freshmen did not know that they were there and so they were used mainly by board members. This is something that was confirmed when we asked some freshmen. In theory, it would be possible to attract more attention to the stand. However, this may distract from the actual study associations.

Since freshmen probably don't actually have any reason to want to know the OS and vice-versa, we feel it is best to use the budget for lemonade at the association stands instead of for an OS stand. That way, associations could offer the freshmen a drink themselves.
